About The Tewaaraton Award:

The Tewaaraton Award was founded by the University Club of Washington DC in August, 2000 to annually recognize the most outstanding men's and women's collegiate lacrosse players and to symbolize lacrosse's centuries-old roots in Native American history. Each year the Tewaaraton Award celebrates one of the six tribal nations of the Iroquois Confederacy: the Mohawk, Cayuga, Oneida, Onondaga, Seneca, and the Tuscarora. Today, the Tewaaraton Trophy is the pre-eminent award in lacrosse which also recognizes a Boys and Girls Baltimore/Washington All-Tewaaraton teams and provides scholarships to Native American youth from the Iroquois Confederacy.
